Comments: I am a British citizen living in the UK but I know people who are being directly affected by the proposed Kalbar mining development and I am totally appalled by everything I have heard and I wish to add my small voice to the growing numbers opposing this plan. From everything I have seen this mining development is going to have a terrible and permanent impact on the surrounding natural environment as well as forcing farming communities to leave their farms as the impact of the pollutants will have such a negative and detrimental effect on their land and livelihoods. I am heartbroken by what is happening all over our fragile and precious planet when big business can see an opportunity to make money no matter what the costs are to the environment. This is the road to folly and foolishness and once taken we can never get back what we have lost.
